OBJECTIVES FOR THE WEEK:

This week is in two parts, looking back and thinking forward. For the looking back, think of all the ideas you have had that have been turned down, that never made the light of day? Now is the time to shine a bright light on these and see what they can do for the you.

Are there any gems there that were just before their time, are there any that will now work with new and changed technology and are there any that could work if partnered in conjunction with other ideas?

The second part is to go forward celebrating the bin: file 13. So start logging the ideas that don't make it, that were nearly but not quite good enough and build up a source that you can go through and find new content from.
